Special needs transport for children and vulnerable adults

Welcome

As part of the Cornwall Council Special Needs Transport Service for children and vulnerable adults, you will be playing a valuable part in transporting passengers safely to and from school and centres.

How you do this will make a real difference to that passenger's day. This Code of Good Conduct provides a guide to the best professional practice to help you achieve that aim.

You are part of a Council service which provides transport to 15,000 school children every school day. Please take the time to read this Code to ensure that our transport service is delivered consistently across our County for all children.

This Code of Good Conduct is part of a set which also includes a behaviour code for children and young people and our expectations of families.

You are part of a Council service which provides transport to 15,000 school children every school day.

Safeguarding

Safeguarding children and vulnerable adults is paramount to every professional in contact with them. Everyone is responsible for ensuring the safety of children, young people and vulnerable adults who may be at risk of harm or neglect.

Your employer will have a safeguarding policy telling you how to act. You should always advise your manager or a responsible adult at the school or Integrated Transport Unit (ITU) if you are concerned.

If you see something, say something...

Do

- Know your contracted route, pick up and drop off points
- Know your plan for bad weather or emergencies
- Model good behaviour by what you do and how you speak
- Speak up if a vulnerable child or adult is being bullied
- Make sure that your identity badge is visible at all times
- Work as a team (Driver and Passenger Assistant) with the children or adults, around the vehicle, at the pick up and drop off points and in giving information to schools/ centres and client families
- Make sure passengers are kept safe by: driving considerately, asking clients to use seat belts, securing wheelchairs properly, using door locks properly, storing luggage properly, using hazard lights when you are picking up or dropping off and not allowing a driver to be distracted
- Make sure that medicines which should be labeled with the passenger's name are passed to a responsible person at the school/centre on arrival
- Hand in lost or left behind items to your manager

Emergencies

Do

- Make sure that you know how to use the car emergency equipment such as fire extinguishers
- Ring your employer who can contact the school, centre or families
- Ring for emergency services
- Know what to do in the event of an accident or breakdown
- Care for you passengers and make them safe
- Reassure your passengers and keep them calm

Don't

- leave your passengers on their own

If you arrive at the passenger's home and no responsible adult is there:

- Contact your employer to call the family and Passenger Transport Unit
- Return with the passenger at the end of your route
- If a responsible adult is still not available, call your employer and take the passenger to the nearest social services centre or police station
- If the above option isn't possible, call the non-emergency Police number (101) and request assistance in arranging a suitable person for the passenger to be left in the care of

If your passenger has a medical emergency you should:

- Summon qualified help such as a paramedic by calling an ambulance
- Apply first aid which would reasonably be expected of a member of the public

Only where a Passenger Assistant has been medically trained and employed, on a case by case basis to provide specialist medical support for a specific passenger, should they take direct action.

Don't

- Communicate with vulnerable children or adults except when they are travelling with you (e.g. not on social network sites)
- Smoke, be affected by alcohol or drugs while doing your job
- Gossip about information on clients which should be confidential
- Drop off clients early if a passenger is missing shortening your route

Continuous improvement

The Integrated Transport Unit (ITU) strive to improve the service to children, young people, vulnerable adults and their families and to make efficiencies. If you have a suggestion for improvement then contact the ITU at ptu@cornwall.gov.uk. Your detailed knowledge will be a great help and help them to provide a better service.
