Our commitment to Cornwall

Our commitment is to work with the people of Cornwall to use our resources wisely, protect our unique environment, create more homes and jobs for residents and ensure we can all live well and safely together.

This annual report sets out what we have achieved for Cornwall in 2017-18.

Listening to you

We are a listening Council. We based our priorities on what you told us matters most to you: affordable decent homes, good health services and care for the vulnerable. Our focus is firmly on delivery. For example, your Council now ranks among the best in the country for providing new affordable homes – over 900 in 2017/18. We built more than one in ten ourselves and over the next three years, we'll build a further 1,000 new homes for people in Cornwall.

Delivering value for money

Using resources wisely is more important now than ever before as Government continues to reduce funding and demand for local services grows. Throughout this report are examples of ways your Council is improving taxpayers' value for money, like introducing energy-saving street lights which are saving £3 million every year.

Standing up for Cornwall

Your Council is standing up for Cornwall, lobbying Government for the funding and powers we need. Our fairer funding campaign reached 88,000 people, as well as all South West Council Leaders. Your Council is the first and only rural area in the country to secure a devolution deal with Government, bringing millions of pounds of extra funding into Cornwall. We have launched an ambitious proposition to Government, New Frontiers, for further powers and funding so Cornwall can flourish beyond Brexit.

Working for you

Your Council is working for you. We invited the Local Government Association to carry out a peer review as an independent check on our performance, which found good and often ground breaking practice in our work transforming children's services, supporting and growing businesses, delivering integrated public transport, working on fire prevention and creating forward-thinking investment programmes. The review found your Council is self-aware with the right plans and focus for further transformation in areas such as adult and social care.

Our business plan explains how we'll maintain and accelerate the progress set out in this annual report over the next four years.

Healthy Cornwall

Your Council is working for you to ensure everyone can live well and safely together. Your Council tax contributes to providing fire and rescue services, children’s and adults’ social care, early education and childcare, good schools, and public health services including community nurses and health visitors.

What we achieved this year

Your Council’s investment in social care freed up over 1,000 bed days in our hospitals compared to the position last year, and we are continuing our focus on ensuring the right care is in place for people to leave hospital as soon as they are well. Less time in hospital is better for people’s health, and makes more hospital beds available for those who need them.

Your Council is protecting and improving the lives of vulnerable adults. With our partners, our homelessness work is having an impact as rough sleeping dropped from 99 to 68 people on a typical night. Prevention programmes like Nos Da Kernow (No First Night) are leading the way nationally.

Working with our partners, your Council helped over 1,600 people in Cornwall stop smoking – a success rate of 49%. Your Council’s fire service and Cormac company, together with countless volunteers from Cornwall’s strong and resilient communities, helped thousands of residents weather challenges such as Storm Emma and the Coverack flash flood.

Your Council provides school nursing, health visiting and community wellbeing services to help people in Cornwall live well. This year, we helped adults on our weight loss programmes lose a combined total of almost a tonne, and our public campaigns mean we are above the national average for identifying HIV early.

We have high aspirations for every child in Cornwall.

With our partners, this year your Council:

- gave 95.9% of children in Cornwall a place at their preferred primary school, almost 12% more than the national average, and created 2,000 more school places for our growing population
- funded 15 hours of free early education for all three and four year-olds and the most disadvantaged two year olds - good early education is proven to improve GCSE outcomes and lifelong earnings
- helped 75% of children leaving care in Cornwall gain education, training or employment - one of the highest levels in the country - and made young care leavers exempt from paying council tax until the age of 25
- reduced the number of teenage pregnancies by 10% - that’s 45% fewer than in 2008.

Listening to you

Over 50,000 people took part in our budget consultation to have their say on how we should make the £75 million of savings needed to manage ongoing reductions in Government funding. One in five of you told us that you value Citizens Advice Cornwall (CAC) and want us to continue to fund it, finding the necessary savings elsewhere. We listened and put a four-year £356,000 funding deal in place for CAC.

Delivering value for money

The exceptional value for money of your Council's children's and families services – rated by OFSTED as amongst some of the best in the country - was nationally recognised this year. The Local Government Association asked us to share how we achieve such good outcomes for children whilst spending less on our services than other councils. Our approach is based on early help and prevention, so that families can avoid reaching crisis point. This is more efficient as well as delivering better outcomes for families in Cornwall.

Standing up for Cornwall

Our devolution deal with Government has enabled your Council to bring in an extra £8 million to target energy efficiency improvements at vulnerable people who are at risk of ill health. This enabled us to launch 'Warm and Well', which is making the homes of over 1,300 vulnerable households in Cornwall cheaper to heat every year.

average number of people per 100,000 in hospital waiting for social care so they can go home compared to 20 for the same time last year

Healthy Cornwall

Improving mental wellbeing

Cornwall Council's HeadStart partnership helps young people improve their mental wellbeing.

Teenager Laine said : "I was reclusive. I never went out, never socialised. My eating and sleeping habits were poor. I was terrified of the outside world.

"HeadStart got me out into the world. I've gained confidence, coping mechanisms and the ability to reach out if I find myself struggling. I'm now content at college. I know so many others who've also benefited from the help, support, love, and respect HeadStart offers."

Fishermen rarely have time to see their doctor, so our health promotion team worked with the Fisherman's Mission to take a check-up service to them on the quayside in Padstow.

“ It's enlightening, a real good service that's brought home one or two things to me. Go and have everything checked – it's there, it's free and it's easy. There's nothing to be afraid of. ”

Trevor Broom, Fisherman

Homes for Cornwall

Your Council is working for you to provide more decent homes that people in Cornwall can afford to rent or buy, and make sure new developments protect and enhance our environment. Your council tax contributes to preventing homelessness and housing those in need, creating more affordable homes, tackling rogue landlords, and bringing empty homes back into use.

What we achieved this year

With the average home in Cornwall costing nine times average local wages, it is not surprising you told us more decent affordable homes is one of your top priorities.

Your Council is the third best local authority in the country for building new homes. We delivered over 900 new affordable homes for Cornwall in 2017/18 alone. We built one in 10 of these directly ourselves as we know we cannot solely rely on private and not-for-profit developers to deliver enough affordable homes for people in Cornwall. Your Council will build 1,000 new homes across Cornwall over the next three years.

Our distinctive communities are the backbone of Cornwall and our growth must be well-planned to fit their local character. Your Council has agreed stronger planning powers by agreeing a Local Plan with Government, and we are using these powers to end speculative, poorly-planned developments. This year we successfully defended 13% more planning appeals than in 2016. To get the best from developments permitted before we gained Local Plan powers, your Council is investing in roads and other infrastructure, to ensure new communities are vibrant and sustainable.

Your Council provides 10,300 social homes for people in Cornwall, managed by Cornwall Housing Limited. Over 98% of new tenants are happy with their home, and our Together for Families programme helps tenants into skills, training and work.

We are taking action to prevent unauthorised encampments, and this year opened Cornwall's first emergency stopping place for Gypsies and Travellers near Liskeard. The purpose built site provides toilets, waste facilities and a secure short term space for these families, guiding them away from unauthorised camps.

Your Council is also driving up the quality of existing homes by:

- making 1,600 homes a year cheaper to heat for vulnerable residents through energy efficiency improvements delivered by our Warm and Well programme with nearly 200 households benefiting from first time central heating
- ensuring decent accommodation for people who rent, with penalties of up to £30,000 for rogue landlords
- bringing empty and dilapidated homes back into use through our Empty Homes Loan scheme.

Listening to you

Your views on how we can improve living conditions for people renting from private landlords in Cornwall. Your ideas for driving up standards have shaped the way we will drive up standards and take enforcement action. We will impose penalties of up to £30,000 on rogue landlords that provide substandard accommodation, and ban serious and prolific offenders.

Delivering value for money

Not-for-profit housing associations can borrow money to build affordable homes. Every £1 of Council money we spend through our housing association partners brings in an extra £6 of funding, so your council tax money can go much further. Your Council is providing housing associations with £35 million that allows them to leverage in £210 million of private investment to build 1,750 affordable homes in Cornwall, create 1,575 new jobs and add £70 million to the Cornish economy.

Standing up for Cornwall

We are lobbying Government for a Cornwall housing deal to give us local control over a £60 million pot to fund the infrastructure we need to enable well planned good quality developments.

73%

of planning appeals were successfully defended against a target of 65%, up from 60% in 2016, and a national average of 69%

40%

of people responding to the 2017 Residents' Survey told us affordable decent housing is the most important factor in making Cornwall a good place to live

Homes for Cornwall

Reducing rough sleeping

In July 2017, your Council launched a £1.1 million approach to preventing rough sleeping, including Nos Da Kernow (No First Night Out).

Shelly, who was recently supported by Nos Da Kernow, said: "I don't know where I would be or what I would have done without Mel and Kieran from the team stepping up for me.

Because of their help, I now have a chance. Mel supported me in looking for a long-term solution and helped with organising my life so I did not end up sleeping on the streets."

You said

“ I'm very pleased with the gas central heating. It's made a huge difference to our day-to-day life as we can have heat as and when we need it – thank you so much! ”

Mercedes Oxley, Resident

Green and prosperous Cornwall

Your Council is working for you to protect and enhance our unique environment and create more jobs for people in Cornwall. Your council tax contributes to keeping our streets clean, emptying our bins and reducing waste, maintaining our beaches and countryside and protecting the public by enforcing food regulations and trading standards. It helps us deliver green growth for Cornwall with our nationally-recognised support for businesses, our investments to create better-paid jobs and build on our distinctive strengths in green energy, creative and digital technologies, space and satellite.

What we achieved this year

Your Council invested well over half of its contractual spend this year – around £300 million – directly into local businesses, to support jobs for people in Cornwall. Our award-winning Business Regulatory Services portal helped local businesses in Cornwall over 4,300 times from March to December.

Your Council is determined that people receive a genuine living wage for the work they do. We are putting an extra £10 million over the next four years into the pay packets of people who work for our contractors by making sure they are paid the Foundation Living Wage, with a focus on our social care suppliers.

Your Council is also using its own land to create jobs. This year our land contract with Galliford Try provided a new skills academy for Cornwall - creating jobs within the academy, and achieving double the industry average rate of progression into employment for thousands of local learners.

Cornwall is rich in natural assets and is fast becoming a world leader in renewable energy. We have levered in European funding to support low carbon projects like the UK's first deep geothermal project generating energy from hot rocks, and the world's first local energy market pilot rewarding local people and businesses for being flexible with their energy demands, so it can be matched to natural supply.

Nine in ten residents surveyed this year were happy with our refuse collection. But keeping Cornwall clean and green is about much more than emptying your bins.

This year your Council:

- supported 233 community litter picks
- added plastic pots, tubs and trays to help increase recycling
- launched a £3.5 million programme to turn urban spaces across Cornwall into green havens for people and wildlife
- committed to be a single-use plastic free Council by 2020, getting the businesses we work with to do the same
- gained International Dark Sky Landscape status for Bodmin Moor, working with Caradon Observatory
- won an RSPCA award for reuniting over 90% of stray dogs picked up by our wardens with their owners – 696 happy wagging tails.
- won seven Blue Flags and seaside awards

Listening to you

Over 4,400 people responded to our consultation on waste and recycling. You told us you want to recycle but find it hard to store recycling between collections and aren't sure what can be recycled. We listened to you, and produced information on what can and can't be recycled, signed off an ambitious waste and recycling strategy, agreed a weekly recycling collection to include food waste, and more than 900 people agreed to become community recycling champions.

Delivering value for money

Our scheme to divert black bag waste which can't be reused or recycled to the incinerator at our Cornwall Energy Recovery Centre is stopping around 5,000 tonnes of waste going into landfill and saving around £250,000 every year.

the amount of Cornwall's electricity now produced from renewable sources - up from 32% last year

We are acting decisively to combat uncertainty around Brexit and Cornwall's economic future. Our £600 million Investment Programme puts money directly into the delivery of more new homes, commercial spaces to support the creation of new jobs and businesses, and the development of new healthcare facilities and schools.

Standing up for Cornwall

Working with partners, we have called on Government to devolve more powers and funding so Cornwall can flourish beyond Brexit. Our proposal would bring in £2 billion and create 20,000 new jobs by 2030. It would enable Cornwall to be the first net extractor of marine plastics, grow our strengths in global industries like renewable energy and creative and digital technologies, and exploit our lithium resource.

3.6%
the increase in average earnings in Cornwall this year - more than double the increase nationally, and worth an extra £692 for the average worker

Green and prosperous Cornwall

Green makeover

Treskerby Playing Fields in Redruth is one of 30 projects getting a makeover to transform local urban green spaces. Over the next two years, £3.5m will be spent on public recreational areas, roadside verges and old churchyards to make them better places for people and for wildlife. Year four students from Treleigh Community Primary School recently helped build more than 100 bug rooms for a bug hotel, which is part of the plan to bring the playing fields back to life by attracting pollinators and in turn helping grow nature.

You said

“ Just want to say thanks for that very good recent photographic leaflet on recycling pots, tubs and trays. Really useful and clear and has helped me to recycle a lot more. ”

Connecting Cornwall

Your Council is working for you to connect people, places and services through all forms of transport and the internet. Your council tax contributes to maintaining over 4,500 miles of roads, improving our sea, road, rail, air and bus networks, and improving Cornwall's broadband and mobile connectivity for people and businesses.

What we achieved this year

This year we launched an new instant reporting portal at www.cornwall.gov.uk/reportroad where you can report potholes, blocked drains, faulty traffic lights and other highways issues. The new system means we will always report back to you when we have fixed the issue, usually within 72 hours.

We delivered major works to improve the surface of the A390 through Gunnislake, completed junction improvements to the Treluswell roundabout near Penryn and installed signalling improvements on the A38 Carkeel roundabout, completing the work six months early. Cornwall's roads are some of the best in the country, with A, B and U roads ranked in the top 25%.

Your Council also enables people to use healthier and less polluting options to travel around Cornwall. We are creating the first fully integrated public transport system outside a major city, making journeys across rail, bus, air and ferry services faster.

Cornwall has long been a trailblazer in global connectivity, since Marconi established the first transatlantic cables from our shores, to our distinctive strengths today in digital technology, space and satellite. Our bid to create the UK's first spaceport would create 900 jobs and make Cornwall a global leader in satellite launch and space travel.

This year, your Council:

- saved £3 million with new energy-efficient streetlights
- with National Rail tested new high speed trains and signalling so we can double services between Penzance and Plymouth to every 30 minutes
- launched contactless ticketing so bus journeys can be paid for with the swipe of a bank card, or by purchasing the Cornish equivalent of London's Oyster card
- with our partners, helped secure £8.4 million investment into Goonhilly Earth Station to create the world's first commercial deep-space communications station for tracking future missions to the Moon and Mars
- further strengthened our leading edge broadband coverage, which means over 90% of Cornwall has superfast broadband connection speeds of over 24Mbps.

Listening to you

We listened to what people said in our public consultations on parking. In response, most Council pay and display car parks are now free to use in the evenings, and regular car park users can 'bulk buy' tickets offering a significant discount on daily parking.

53%

of people were satisfied with the maintenance of Cornwall's highways, well above the national average of 37% in the National Highways and Transport survey

Delivering value for money

Your Council introduced smart traffic lights, which learn the pattern of traffic flow and respond on demand. This is reducing journey times and saving £200,000 every year.

Standing up for Cornwall

We have used bus franchising powers from our devolution deal from Government to secure an extra £17 million investment, with 41 brand new buses for Cornwall. Our fairer funding campaign also called on Government to allow Cornwall to retain 2p in every litre from the existing fuel duty to fund better roads.

700,000

more journeys in Cornwall made by bus compared to last year

Connecting Cornwall

Strategic link strengthened

One of Cornwall's most important strategic routes was transformed by the Council this year, with completion of the dualling of the A30 between Temple and Higher Carblake. This is making a huge difference for residents, businesses and visitors alike.

The scheme has improved traffic flows, road safety and reliable journey times, and will bring an extra £134 million into the Cornish economy each year.

You said

“ I reported a very dangerous pothole outside our local shop and not only was it repaired quickly, I received an email telling me it had been fixed. ”

Mrs Treloor, Truro

Democratic Cornwall

Your Council is working for you. You have told us you do not always feel fully informed about our services or able to influence local decisions. We are determined to listen, give you a greater say over decisions, and put more community facilities back under local control.

What we achieved this year

We believe power should sit as close to the community as possible. Your Council is winning more control from Government over Cornwall-wide services, and giving more control of Council services to the communities that use them. We call this 'double devolution'.

This year, your Council put community assets like Padstow allotments, Lanstephan play area, Carrick Sports Hall and six libraries back under local control and we also funded 750 not-for-profit community groups. With the help of community partners we are transforming Cornwall's libraries, offering free access to wi-fi, job information and community activities. Bringing in other services reduces costs, increases use of the building and attracts more people to use our libraries, so that they are sustainable for the long-term.

Your Council supported 12 further communities to gain planning powers over the developments permissible in their area, by developing a Neighbourhood Development Plan. We have now supported over 100 communities across Cornwall to develop Neighbourhood Development Plans, one of the highest levels in the country, with 14 plans adopted to date.

We are using the devolved powers on our devolution deal with Government to deliver real benefits:

- secured Intermediate Body status from Government giving us more local control over how £184 million of European funding is spent on growing our local economy and ensuring Cornwall's people benefit
- improved employment and skills with the Department for Education choosing Cornwall and the Isles of Scilly to be one of only a handful of local authorities to pilot new ways of understanding skills demands and skills barriers in our local market.
- retained 100% of rates paid by local businesses in Cornwall so business growth benefits the community, delivering an extra £8 million for essential public services in Cornwall in this year alone

Listening to you

You told us in the 2017 Residents' Survey that local roads are important to you, and that you don't always feel you can influence local decisions. In response, local communities across Cornwall have been given a combined budget of £1 million every year - £50,000 for each of our 19 Community Network Areas - to spend on small local road schemes in, such as 20mph signs outside schools, parking controls, dropped kerbs and improvements for pedestrians.

Delivering value for money

While many other councils have closed libraries and other community facilities in the face of ongoing Government funding cuts, innovative and collaborative approaches are enabling communities to maintain and often improve local assets. We are also working with partners to sustain Cornwall-wide facilities, such as our leisure centres, which are now run by a charitable social enterprise, improving our offer to residents while saving £3.5 million every year.

Standing up for Cornwall

Our Fairer Funding campaign reached over 88,000 people on social media along with an open letter from Council Leaders across the South West. If people in Cornwall had the same rate of funding as inner London we would have £212 million more for public services each year. Your Council is standing up for a fair deal for Cornwall.

Coronation Park

Coronation Park was built to commemorate the reign of King George V in 1910. The park is important to the people of Helston, and also the wider community who have long enjoyed this beautiful space, recognised as a real haven for families. We are devolving control over the park to South Kerrier Alliance Community Group following detailed talks and preparations with local residents. This is a great example of local devolution, and means the park is now being run by the community, for the community.

You said

“ The Council recognised how important Coronation Park is, not only to the people of Helston, but to people well beyond the Helston area. This type of transfer of power and democratic approach to running local amenities shows what can be achieved when a community takes ownership of a cause close to their hearts. ”

David Turnbull, Idirector of South Kerrier Alliance Community Group
