

Green Infrastructure for Growth – Berries Avenue Bude –
June 2019

BEFORE Surrounded by Cornwall Housing, this area of open space was mown grass

Welcome to Berries
Avenue Field

Colour and buzzing should surround the playground. Meadow looking fantastic in June.

European Union

European Regional Development Fund

CORNWALL COUNCIL
one and all · onen hag oll

UNIVERSITY OF EXETER

A large shrub border with specimen trees now gives the park a boundary creating a sense of place for the open area.

New seating is sited where the best sunsets can be viewed. The location was agreed with a local resident

A small wetland has been positioned in one of the wetter areas of the park which will provide colour and absorb extra water. Ragged robins and marsh marigolds in flower.

Being good neighbours, the planting has been extended onto the road verge with trees and shrubs improving the approach to the park from the south.

Interpretation panel provides information about how the space benefits wildlife

A new noticeboard waiting for the community to adopt it and use it to communicate local initiatives

Extra seating close to the interpretation panel encourages more people to spend time in the space.

Bee bumbling through the poppies, camomile and cornflower meadow.

26 June 2019 - Karen Hall